This is tomorrow.

A lot of people never thought they would see it or didn't care to see it or don't believe it is happening. Most will be looking to tomorrow after this one passes.

It may never quite please, this tomorrow. A dream might never come true. Or it might materialize and leave an emptiness when the dream itself is not enough. It might leave a question in one's mind, a title of a recent song: "Is That All There Is?"

Most often, it is better that a dream never quite be complete, that it be long and and broad and deep and timeless enough to continue beyond coming of age.

Fullfillment of a dream will might be an ego mark on the landscape or above it or some cipher in history, large or small. Continuing a dream may will bring a zest and quest more meaningful than any fullfillment.

Men know it is the doing and not the ending that really stirs tham. If they can do something fine or even great, in the perspective of time, they can also pass their dream to the next generation and not stifle it by compelling blind acceptance of one generation's dream by the next. The younger soon enough will find the merit or lack of it in a continuing aspiration.

Folk Fete is established. It is coming of age and need for growth.

The variety is there, the base for additional participation by crowds, the interest in new activity along the talent lines drawn by the first two Folk Fetes.

Why not consider name individual talent? The possibility of importing representative folk groups to add to the array of local dance groups which are doing such a fine job? Fredricksburg flew in a glee club from Germany just to sing at their recent festival.

Why not some marching bands in the parade, one that is a fine representation of the Folk Fete idea?

We all can be pleased at the enormous co-operation and enthusiasm this Fete already has developed in the Milam community. If there are problems ahead, there is some basis here by the experience of Folk Fete to solve them. And Cameron and Milam County are doing a good job on most of the current growth problems.

It would be difficult, it not impossible to say that Cameron doubled an estimated 5,000 people to 10,000 from the first Fete to the second. But it was better run in City Park area. The first night's Yoe Field attendance was estimated at about 600 to 700, the second 1700 to 1800. Any other figures on attendance at the parade or in the park would run around on the shoals of "guessimation."

Folk Fete is a success. It needs to grow. And it will.

STATE WINNERS - Kathy Price and Gary Meyer won silver medals at the Texas State Solo and Ensemble Contest in Austin last weekend.

Yoe Bandsters Win Medals At State Contest

Kathy Price and Gary Meyer brought more honors to the Yoe High Band by being the first students ever to participate in the Texas State Solo and Ensemble Contest held at the University of Texas at Austin June 11 and 12.

Both Kathy and Gary won silver medals for division two ratings. Kathy plays first chair bass clarinet and Gary is first chair alto clarinetist.

To be eligible for the state contest, students must first earn a division one rating on a class one solo or ensemble at the Regional University Interscholastic League contest. Approximately 8,800 of the state's finest high school musicians were eligible for the competition.

Judges for the event were music professors from outstanding colleges and universities throughout the nation. George Backlund, the bass clarinet judge, is instructor of clarinet at The University of Michigan.

The alto clarinet judge was Dr. Milburn Carey, head of the music department at Phillips University in Enid, Okla. Dr. Carey is also chairman and organizer of the annual Tri-State Music Festival.

Kathy, a senior, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Price. Gary, a junior, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Meyer.

Downtown Demolition Bids Called

Cameron Urban Renewal Agency is advertising for bids for demolition work of the entire block west of Milam Courthouse and other buildings in downtown Cameron.

A. W. McCullin, Sr., executive director, announced the July 8 bid call, scheduled for public opening at Cameron Urban Renewal headquarters, at a Monday luncheon address of Noon Lions Club

He told The Herald Tuesday morning that 21 buildings out of 33 scheduled for purchase or rehabilitation by CURA (Cameron Urban Renewal Agency) had been purchased from owners or been committed for purchase by owners.

McCullin said the twenty-first commitment came Monday night when officials of All Saints Episcopal Church said the building in Block 14 owned by the church was available for purchase. It is adjacent to the Cameron Independent School District tax office.

TWO "REHABBED"

Two other buildings of the 33 have been turned back for rehabilitation rather than purchase, McCullin told Cameron Lions, nine buildings are in various stages of discussion for purchase and one building, the CISD tax office, is not yet under discussion, the CISD tabling any action in last Thursday's board meeting.

"Copies of the contract documents may be obtained by depositing $10 with the Cameron Urban Renewal Agency for each set of documents so obtained." the CURA demolition legal ad says.

Sealed bids for demolition of the entire block west of the Milam Courthouse and individual or small clusters of buildings throughout the nine-block renewal area are scheduled to be opened 10 a.m. July 8 at CURA offices, 112 East First Street.

McCullin expressed confidence in the growth of Cameron Monday with the progress he outlined in downtown improvements scheduled. Beside removal dozens of old buildings and upgrading, where needed, the rest, downtown streets and sidewalks will be modernized.

He also said he believed the schools would benefit as much or more than anybody by a downtown improvement which would increase tax income for the school district. He cited examples of urban renewal projects which tripled and quadrupled actual tax income for city and schools, including Lubbock.

Downtown project signs also went up last week, prior to Folk Fete, showing the project is underway, McCullin said. One sign is displayed on the sidewalk beside the now-closed Magna-Craft Manufacturing Co.

Total cost of the project, according to the urban renewal sign, is $776,885.

County Agent Retires McCutchen Appointed

Billy M. McCutchen who is currently the County Agricultural Agent in Hamilton County will become County Agricultural Agent for Milam County on September 1, 1971. McCutchen will fill the post vacated by J. D. Moore who has served as the Milam County Agent for the past 22 years.

The announcement was made by County Judge O. B. Harden and John Burleson, District Agent for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, following the regular meeting of the Commissioners' Court on Monday.

McCutchen, a native of Cryell County, is a graduate of Gatesville High School and holds a degree in agronomy from Texas A&M University. He has also done graduate work at Texas A&M Judge Harden says.

McCutchen, a native of Coryell Counsion Service in 1961 when he was appointed Junior Assistant Agent in Lynn County. Later he was an officer in the U.S. Army serving in West Germany from 1962 until 1964.

Following his military duty, McCutchen was named as Assistant County Agricultural Agent in Eastland County, a post which he held until his appointment as Hamilton County agent in September 1967.

District Agent Burleson credits the new agent with significant improvements in both the adult program in Agriculture and in 4-H Club work in Hamilton County.

McCutchen is first vice-president and presently serving as acting president of the Hamilton Lions Club; President of the Hamilton County A&M Club; deacon and Sunday School teacher in the First Baptist Church and member of the Hamilton Chamber of Commerce, Hamilton Volunteer Fire Department, Hamilton County Livestock Association, and Texas and National County Agricultural Agents' Associations.

His wife, Shirley, is president of the Hamilton Young Homemakers, organist for the church and a member of the Colonial Study Club.

The McCutchens have one son, Billy Fred, age 6.

In announcing Moore's retirement to the Court, Burleson reviewed a few of the highlights of the retiree's distinguished career in Milam County. Included were an array of successful shortcourses, agricultural demonstrations, and other educational programs. Moore has an outstanding record in coaching 4-H teams including numerous state winning and two first place national poultry judging teams.

Burleson citied Moore for accomplishments in training assistant county agents.

Moore plans to continue living in Cameron following his retirement on August 31.

Council Grants Cable Franchise, Okays Park Work

City Council Tuesday night approved a non-exclusive cable TV franchise for Cameron, affirmed authority for surface work to begin on a new Little League Park and reviewed current paving projects.

Bill Hornung, president of Cameron Little League, confirmed authority with councilmen to begin working surface of a three-acre tract northeast of Cameron Airpark for an additional ball diamond.

City Secretary Buddy Fuller said it was expected that additional acreage would be sought for another diamond, he believed would be built simultaneously with the first.

Michael Cullun, president of TV Cable of Cameron, received council approval of a proposed, non-exclusive cable TV franchise, which would bring educational, VHF, and Houston TV signals to Cameron, the prospect of FM and local movie origin. The franchise is non-exclusive and subject to $500 bond forfeiture if construction on the project fails to begin within six months.

The same company received approval for a franchise in Rockdale, called New World Cable TV Co., with the same $500 forfeiture clause.

Council reviewed paving progress which includes about eight new blocks in the 10th to 12th street area east of North Jackson, 13th Street from Jackson to Milam, and projected paving, already staked out on North Crockett from Fourth to 12th Street, and Austin Avenue from 16th to US 77.

Council also heard an inquiry into zoning question on construction of a warehouse in commercially zoned pro-

Drilling Starts On Bell Milam-Falls Water Well

Drilling has begun on the water well for the Bell-Milam-Falls Water Supply Corporation according to W. H. McCormick, Water Corporation president.

The construction start is the culmination of more than 2 years of work by water corporation members and officers. The system will serve an estimated 1800 people in a 237 mile area reaching from Bartlett to Davilla, to Sharp, Buckholts, Travis, Lott, Cedar Springs, Rosebud, Heidenheimer and south of Temple.

The water well is being drilled about two miles west of Rogers by the Barnswill Drilling Company of Shreveport, Louisiana. The drilling contract calls for a well 3,200 plus feet or 40 feet into the Hoseten Formation, bottom of the Trinity sands.

Two well logs will be run to determine the best source of water supply. Pipe will be perferated 130 feet off the bottom of the Trinity sands, where some 350 feet of water sands is expected at this area.

As soon as the well is completed and the water supply accepted by the State Water Board and the F.H.A., McCormick stated, construction will start on an elevated storage tank 60 feet high. Ground elevation at the well site is 629 feet above sea level. The top of the storage tank will stand a towering 180 feet above the city of Rogers. Six booster stations will assure enough water pressure. All booster stations will have automatic bypasses in case of power failure; water will then be available at the next pump.

East Bell Water Supply, Westphalia Water Supply, South West Milam Water Supply, and the City of Rogers will all tie into the new water system, thus affording all groups a source of water in an emergency.

The projected water supply demands of 1970 will double by 1980, McCormick said. The Bell-Milam-Falls Water Supply has a 40% built-in reserve to take care of 225 new members. The system presently has 557 members.

Mr. Horton of Certefied Water Supply Services will manage the new water system. Contract forms are being worked out through Ruben Lesikar, the Corporation's lawyer. Horton also manages the East Bell, the Dog Ridge, Peppers Creek, and the Little Flock water systems. Duff Consulting Engineers Inc. of Waco is the Corporation's engineering firm and will be in charge of all construction.

Construction cost was estimated at $902,000; contract cost of $793,000 was accepted. A loan of $700,000 and a grant of $180,000 from the Farm Home Administration made the construction of the Bell-Milam-Falls water system possible.

Members who have not signed a service agreement or the needed easement to build the water line will not be served. Engineers and the contractor will contact members and land owners before meter setting or construction begins.

Community Effort Saves Cemetery

A community effort that expanded to reach former North Milam families from the east to west coast has proven that though families move away their home ties remain strong.

North Elm Cemetery, a free rural cemetery since 1870, stood badly in need of attention and care when Ed Westbrook, the Bud Johnsons and Frank Griffin (now deceased) decided to promote organization of a new cemetery association.

A community meeting was called on July 25, 1958 with J. C. Mayfield as moderator. Jesse Gibbs, L. W. Klapka and Mr. and Mrs. Bud Johnson were elected as trustees and a two day community cemetery cleaning followed.

Mrs. Johnson, association secretary, began compiling a list of names and addresses of decendants of families buried at the North Elm Cemetery. A letter explaining conditions at the cemetery and plans for future upkeep was mailed.

"The response to the letters was excellent," Mrs. Johnson said. "We received contributions from coast to coast - New York to California."

Alton Bryant, a native son of the North Elm Community, made an ornamental iron arch for the cemetery's front gate. Other contributions provided material and paint for an implement shed, rest room and three power mowers.

Ed Westbrook secured contributions to build 352 feet of fence for the cemetery east and front sides. Later a separate fund was established to build 450 feet of hurricane fence on the south side of the cemetery and 410 feet on the north side. All of the fence is set in cement.

In 1967 a tractor with dirt moving equipment was bought with cemetery contributions and the next year the implement shed was enlarged.

"The North Elm Church and school closed long ago and the buildings are gone so the cemetery remains as the tie which causes the community to continue as a vital place," Mrs. Johnson explained.

The cemetery, located one mile south of Farm to Market Road 485 northwest of Cameron, covers almost 14 acres of land. Mrs. Johnson said they believed land was given for the cemetery by J. G. Lagrone, B. I. Arnold, W. J. Valentine and J. C. Mayfield, a former Milam County school teacher. The earliest tombstone is that of Lagrone and is inscribed "born Edgefield Dist. S.C. May 17, 1792 died Milam Co., Tex. June 5, 1870.

Mrs. Johnson said that her records showed 140 families represented in the cemetery of 715 graves. She said the association now had a membership of 375.

"It has taken many volunteer hours to keep the century old cemetery in good order," Mrs. Johnson said. She credited former trustees Tom Bryant, Issac Wilkerson, Sam Clark, Bob Moorman, B. C. Barrett, Frank Griffin, Martin Russell, Mose Price, Jim Mann, Ed Westbrook, John Lott and Tom Little.

Present association officers are Audis Lott, president; Claud C. Bailey, vice president; Bud Johnson, business manager; Mrs. Johnson, secretary treasurer; Miss Imogene Eickenhorst, assistant secretary.

HISTORIC CEMETERY - The 101 year old North Elm Cemetery with well kept grounds and new fencing is a community effort that expanded to reach families from New York to California. The North Elm Cemetery Association, with 375 members, maintains the property as a free rural cemetery.

Which Is Paramount?

Street talk is giving urban renewal acquisition stage some moments.

This is not street talk. The following figures are from A. W. McCullin, Sr., director of Cameron Urban Renewal Agency, showing progress of acquisition of or rehabilitation of 33 buildings in the downtown area.

The breakdown:

21 buildings bought or committed to sell to the Agency

9 in various stages of negotiation for sale

1 with no action

2 converted to rehabilitation projects, not to be purchased.

Cameron Urban Renewal Agency is advertising for sealed bids on "demolition of buildings and structures and site clearance" in this edition of the Herald for a July 8 opening at the Cameron agency office.

Question remains on the tax office of Cameron Independent School District, according to McCullin. School board thinks building value is about $13,000 while appraisals show a value of $8,625 set for the building, corner of First and Central.

Both school board and urban renewal agency have positions. Urban renewal agency also has a resolution approved by the CISD board of May, 1966, which acknowledges cooperation was intent of the school board at time it purchased the tax building within the block intended for total destruction, then and now.

Board thinks improvements added to purchase price makes CISD building value more than appraisal.

One question is: Wouldn't CISD be well ahead with remodeled downtown, improved tax base for CISD support as well as City? Isn't this a question of public money bargaining for a public building bought with public money, supposedly in the public interest?

Now, which is paramount? A refurbished downtown or a delay over a short-term question which will more than be offset in the long term?

Interesting Testimony?

For breaking the biggest bank since Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. was instituted, not to mention two insurance companies. . .

For costing a Jesuit Order an estimated $8.5 millions . . .

And for helping crack public confidence in Texas state government at highest levels. . .

. . .Frank Sharp, 65, Houston real estate-insurance - banking entrepreneur, plead guilty Monday to selling unregistered stocks and making false entries in the now-defunct Sharpstown State Bank.

He was fined $5,000 and given three years probated sentence in a Houston federal district court.

Federal Dist. Judge John Singleton later signed a court order instructing that no other charges arising from the loan and stock deals may be filed against Sharp, except for perjury or contempt of court.

Then Sharp went to the U.S. Courthouse in Houston to appear before a federal grand jury.

It sounds as if Mr. Sharp will contribute interesting testimony to the August findings of the Securities and Exchange commission about the whole, elaborate machination.

"Low Down" FROM THE Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

MOVES TO ABOLISH U.S. POSTAL SERVICE

REP. CHARLES H. WILSON (Calif.) ". . . As a ranking member of the Post Office Civil Service Committee and one of the original sponsors of the Postal Reorganization Act, I was appalled to hear the Postmaster General's testimony given recently before our committee on how he planned to run the new U.S. Postal Service.

"Through twisted reasoning, the Postmaster General has refused to bargain sincerely with the postal labor unions; has signed an unworkable agreement with the Corps of Engineers to build post offices; and has issued a memorandum that attempts to identify Members of Congress as foes of the new Postal Service.

"Mr. Speaker, I am sure that the House of Representatives, the Post Office and Civil Service Committee, and definitely this Member, never intended the Postal Reorganization Act, which created the U.S. Postal Service, to be interpreted the way Mr. Blount has chosen to interpret it.

"As a supporter of postal reorganization, I cannot stand by and watch this man destroy what so many of us worked so hard to achieve -- a responsive, efficient, modern Postal Service. . .

"I am, therefore, introducing today, legislation (H.R. 8451) which will abolish the U.S. Postal Service by repealing the Postal Reorganization Act and establishing the former U.S. Postal Department as an executive department of the Federal Government. Admittedly, this bill is only a vehicle by which our committee may start anew and, under the able leadership of Chairman Dulski (N.Y.) and the ranking Republican Member, the gentleman from Iowa (Mr. Gross,) can write new legislation that will establish the type of modern postal service we all desire.

"At this time, Mr. Speaker, without objection, I would like to include in the Record testimony that I gave before the Subcommittee on Postal Service. . .(An excerpt follows.)

"Mr. Chairman, we were tired of postal officials coming before our Committee telling us that the reason they couldn't build more post offices faster and more efficiently was because of all the red tape they had to deal with. So we turned them loose, gave them the opportunity to develop their own in-house corps of experts to build their own post offices, yet, instead of doing this, they immediately contracted with another Government Agency (U.S. Corps of Engineers) which, of course will force them to deal with more red tape. In other words, they traded old red tape for new red tape.'

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editar:

According to an article I read in a newspaper last night which I'd already looked at once but was better than the re-run I'd already seen three times on television, some ecologists were up in arms in some city, I forget which, because members of a woman's garden club served refreshments in paper cups.

Cold drinks, they contended, should be served only in returnable bottles or re-usable glasses and the women ought to be ashamed to be contributing to the garbage problem.

They said they had .. ling against garden clubs but the members ought to join the national drive to cut down on the millions of tons of disposable containers now plaguing the nation.

I have been thinking about this and I guess the ecologists are right, but they shouldn't stop with paper cups.

For example, what I'd like to see is a returnable automobile. These throw-away models are cluttering up the junk piles of the world.

The same goes for refrigerators, washing machines, box cars, baby beds, etc. I don't know about Congressmen. There' re very few returnable ones. When one gets beat he rarely returns home to the people he claims he loves, he gets appointed to a job and stays on in Washington. They tell me there're hulks of ex-Congressmen scattered all over the place.

Or getting back to paper, take postage stamps, a small item you might say, but do you know how many billions are used every year? There's no need for the post office department to print up thousands of tons of stamps and ship them around to all the country's post offices, then haul them back one at a time on letters where they'll be thrown into the receiver's wastebasket with the envelope. All the post office needs is a machine that'll read numbers. You write your Social Security number on the envelope where the stamp goes, the machine reads it, charges your account and adds it to your income tax.

You might say, yeah, but what are you going to do about people who forge other people's Social Security number on their letters, and my answer is, let's change the subject.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Legislature Okays Major Changes In Election Laws

By Vern Sanford

Major changes in election laws for voters and candidates were approved by the 62nd Legislature. All are contingent on final federal court action upholding lower court decisions invalidating old requirements.

Gov. Preston Smith has signed into law a new voter registration act and filing fee bill.

Earlier the Texas Legislature enacted a resolution ratifying the federal constitutional amendment extending full voting rights to 18-year-olds. Federal amendment may not be finally cleared in time for the 1972 elections, but young voters can participate in presidential and congressional voting and the national nominating convention series.

New voter registration provides for year-around sign-up (with temporary cutoff 30 days before any election) and automatic renewal for three years by voting in any primary or general election. First registration under the new system will begin October 1. March 1, 1972, is the earliest voting date for new registrants. Voters will continue using present registration certificates for elections through next February.

A federal court invalidated the old Texas annual registration requirement, which was unique in the nation. Texas' new automatic registration law would be repealed if appelate courts reinstate annual registration.

Under a bill passed by the 62nd Legislature, in response to another federal ruling that present filing fees are excessive, candidates would pay a maximum of four per cent of the term of office salaries to get on the ballot.

Bill also permits "filing by affidavit" stating that the candidate cannot pay the prescribed fee, or by a "petition" signed by 10 per cent of the voters in the last general election within the area (state, county, precinct) served by the office sought. If the Supreme Court invalidates this act, a special legislative session may be necessary to provide a method of paying primary election costs in 1972.

IMMUNIZATION REQUIRED

Texas students must begin an immunization program by Jan. 1, 1972, under legislation just signed into law, says the Texas Department of Health.

Students will be allowed to enter schools during the summer and fall terms with provision that their immunizations against at least one of six diseases will be started by Jan. 1 and completed as soon as medically possible.

Required immunization for grade school level youngsters includes diptheria, tetanus, poliomyelitis, measles, rubella and smallpox. Measles immunization is not required if there is a history of measles illness.

Exceptions may be granted on religious grounds or to those who may be harmed by immunization (on written certification by a physician). However, exemptions would not be permitted in a time of emergency or epidemic, the Health Department adds.

AUTO RATE HEARINGS SET

Hearings are set for 9 a.m. June 30 here to consider new auto rates to replace the controversial schedule put into effect January 1.

State Board of Insurance is expected to hear usual cross-recommendations to raise and lower rates. Hearing will be conducted in the State Highway Department auditorium on casualty and physical damage rates, rating plans and rules.

All those who wish to have subject matter placed on the agenda were advised by the Board to contact its automobile office here by June 23 and provide written statements in quadruplicate.

Rate revisions will be effective on and after September 1 under present indications.

After hearings last year the Board increased rates an average of 14 per cent, statewide. This raised an angry reaction from many insurance purchasers. Insurance companies, which urged a 27.7 per cent increase, were equally unhappy.

COURTS SPEAK

Third Court of Civil Appeals has ruled that the Ector County Commissioners Court had no authority to spend county funds to purchase a 280-acre tract as the site for the University of Texas of Permian Basin, Odessa. Court decision said the rest of the campus tract, 308 acres, was properly acquired for the new state university as a gift.

State Supreme Court upheld the "spoke" annexation of a narrow strip of territory by the City of San Antonio and noted that the new law banning such annexation does not apply to past city actions.

High Court refused to place on the June 29 charter election ballot in Pharr a committee - proposed recall amendment.

On July 7 arguments will be heard by the Supreme Court as to whether a minister can be held in contempt of court for refusing to move his church.

Reversing a district court ruling, the Third Court of Civil Appeals said that an Austin area teacher whose contract was not renewed deserves a full trial on merits.

U.S. Supreme Court vacated a three-judge federal court finding in San Antonio that the Texas safety responsibility act is valid and sent the case back for reconsideration in view of an earlier ruling that a Georgia law provides no proper method of determining fault of drivers in accidents.

AG OPINIONS

Non-resident archery hunters in portions of Sabine and San Augustine counties must qualify for the regular non - resident hunting license, plus a special license for five - day periods, Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin has held.

In other recent opinions, Martin concluded that:

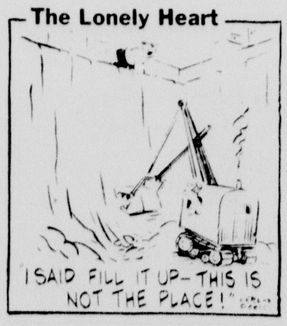
* Griffin and Brand of McAllen are entitled to 435 acres of water right acreage under a section of the Rio Grande Valley water rights case judgment on rehearing.

* Southwest Texas (Uvalde) Junior College Board is without authority to issue a district note of $100,000 payable over 15 years and secured by pledge of district bank stock to finance faculty housing on campus.

A GRASSROOTS COMMENT

The story that an elephant is a mouse built to government specifications could be rewritten to portray the U.S. Corps of Engineers--the huge dam builders -- erecting a small Post Office.--J.C.

The Lonely Heart



THE FAMILY LAWYER

"Doctor in the House?"

Suppose you are sitting in a theater when the man next to you slumps to the floor, unconscious. In alarm, you shout:

"Is there a doctor in the house?"

And a doctor comes and gives first aid. As the person who summoned the doctor, could you be held legally liable for his fee?

As a general rule, when you request any kind of services to be performed for someone else, you may indeed be responsible for payment. But in the case of a medical emergency, the law usually makes an exception and denies liability. As one court explained:

"Persons commonly call for medical aid for the sick solely out of a spirit of kindness, without any expectation of becoming personally responsible."

Would it matter that the sick person was your friend or relative? Not necessarily. Thus:

A man brought his daughter-in-law to the hospital for some tests while her husband was away on a trip. When surgery became necessary, he told the doctor to go ahead. Did this request, plus his kinship to the patient, make him responsible for the surgical fee?

A court said no, because it was not customary for a man to be responsible for his daughter-in-law's medical expenses. To make him liable, said the court, there would have to be a more specific understanding between him and the doctor.

Still, the understanding need not be as specific as a formal legal contract. In another case, a man was driving his girl friend home from a party when he had an accident. The girl was badly injured, and he rushed her to a hospital.

There he begged the doctor to do everything he could to save her life. He said he "felt responsible" because she had suffered the injury in his car.

Later, he tried to avoid liability to the doctor by pointing out that he had not made a specific agreement to pay. But a court held him responsible anyhow. The judge said the comments he did make, under such circumstances, could fairly be interpreted as a promise to foot the bills.

Letters to the Editor

June 11, 1971

Dear Frank:

I am grateful to you and your staff for the tremendous help that you have given this office this past year. Your editorial comments in the last few issues have been especially gratifying because you have expressed some of the critical problems that independent and responsible legislators face in Austin.

It is a sad day for Texas when only 30 or 35 members will stand up and oppose wasteful spending and unjust tax bills. The only possible way that the public can be informed is through outstanding newspapers that will print the truth on these measures. In this way, the electorate can be informed and possibly will make the necessary changes in the election year of 1972 so that those who serve at that time will not have the burdens that we shared this session.

As you know, my wife Zana and I have not made any definite plans at this time, but are visiting people in the area to see what position we should seek. Serving in a governmental capacity is a wonderful experience and my job has been much easier because of people like yourself who have taken the time and trouble to help.

Yours very truly,
Dan Kubiak

County Agent's Notes

County Crops Tour Set

By J. D. Moore

July 12 has been selected as the date for the annual Milam County crops tour according to Crops Committee member, Wilburn Beckhusen, chairman.

The group will leave from the Post Office in Cameron at 8 a.m. The tour will be completed by noon with a barbecue meal, courtesy of Perry Edwards, Geigy Company district Salesman. Tour details will be announced later.

STILES FARM TOUR

Farmers, stockmen and others interested are reminded of the annual Stiles Farm Tour to begin at 2 p.m., June 22.

Tickets for the barbecue supper are available at Rodenbecks, Thorndale; the two gins in Buckholts; or from the county agents office in Cameron.

MILAM CROP PROSPECTS

"Could be better and they could be worse". Grain sorghum is heading in most of the county and could make a fair crop with another rain. After getting off to a bad start, cotton is beginning to fruit up real well and shows promise of a moderate crop.

Farmers are making good use of chemicals to control weeds and grass in their crops. Some report hay crops made. Doyle Arnold who farms north of Buckholts reports his hay crop to equal that of last year. Others have forage crops ready for harvest.

Small farm cooperators in the Gause and Griffin Chapel communities used forage varieties and increased fertilizer rates to forage production. Calvin Moore has a good demonstration using chemical weed control and fertilizer practices to improve utilization of plant nutrients to increase corn yields.

The best corn crop prospects in the county was seen at Ezra Johnson's home farm which is located in the "Six Mile" community east of Gause.

Ezra is the small farm program aide. He used more than a hundred pounds of nitrogen along with sufficient amounts of phosphorous and potash to properly furnish plant nutrients for a high yield of corn.

Ed Snelgro, another small farm cooperator in the Gause Community planted a test plot of grain sorghum to be compared to corn as a grain crop in the Gause area. Prospects are good for a maize crop on the test plot.

Small farm demonstration programs are showing good results in the Gause area. The county agent, associate county agent and the program aide visited a number of the small farm demonstrations last week. One of the annual goals was to increase forage for livestock production.

Drought Conditions Mean Decisions For Cattlemen

COLLEGE STATION

The drought conditions that have devastated much of the state's rangeland and pastures are forcing ranchers to make decisions on matching forage production and supplemental feeding with cow numbers and production levels.

These decisions become more and more complicated as the rancher tries to keep losses low while retaining enough cattle to make a reasonably quick financial recovery after normal rainfall resumes.

A short drought is sometimes serious enough to reduce forage production by 60-70 percent, according to L. A. Maddox Jr., Extension beef cattle specialist. This lower forage production can reduce cow weights by 75 to 100 pounds and cause calf weights to sag 75 to 125 pounds, he added.

Calf crops can be reduced more than 20 percent when the most severe period of the drought occurs when cows are expected to rebreed, the specialist noted.

The feed supply on well managed ranges may not be seriously reduced by the first six to 12 months of a drought because of old forage on the ground and drought resistant plants that will grow on subsoil moisture. In cases such as these, a small addition in supplemental feeding can allow maintenance of normal cow numbers with some reduction in cow weight and weaning weight.

Stockmen in the midst of long term drought periods, plagued with poor cows, no subsoil moisture, no reserve feed, and pastures without anything to slow down runoff, may see their forage production drop to 10 to 20 percent of normal.

When faced with such drastically reduced forage supplies, the rancher must reduce cow numbers, sell light weight calves, and spend more for supplemental feeding.

Maddox explained that in long term drought situations there comes a time when the rancher can't maintain his usual numbers without buying most of his feed.

If forage production is kept at about 60 percent of normal, regular production levels might be maintained by reducing cow numbers 60 percent.

With the same reduction in forage production, a rancher could keep about 76 percent of normal cow numbers if he would be satisfied with reductions of 75 pounds in cow weight and 100 pounds in calf weight. Maintenance of such high cow numbers would also require a 75 percent increase in supplemental feeding.

"When forage production is reduced to 30 percent, a rancher probably won't be able to maintain normal cow and calf weights with a reduction in cow numbers," Maddox warns. "But he might be able to produce calves that are 20 percent lighter in weaning weights from cows that are eight to 10 percent lighter if cow numbers are reduced to 38 percent of normal and supplemental feeding is increased by 150 percent."

Weaning 240 pound calves at five months off of 800 pound cows should allow continuing stocking rates at 63 percent of normal with 30 percent of normal forage production, if supplemental feeding is increased by 220 percent.

Ranchers should be able to maintain about 75 percent of normal cow numbers by weaning calves at three months of age. Maddox added that such early weaning should stimulate rebreeding of cows and maintain a high percentage calf crop with 800 pound cows and 900 pounds of concentrates or its equivalent in hay fed to supplement poor pastures.

FARMERS AND ECOLOGY

Each day farmers combine the elements of nature-sun, water, soil, air, plants, animals - to efficiently produce the world's greatest food supply. Their crops, through the photosynthesis process, cleanse the air and are great producers of oxygen. Therefore, who is better fitted to be called America's Number One Ecologist than the farmer?

Sydney, Australia, Reuter -- Portuguese immigrant Antonio Santos, 72, has an eight foot high cabbage in his backyard, and says it is still growing taller.

Farmers Union Opposes 2nd Class Postal Hike

The Farmers Union has urged the Postal Rate Commission to turn down a proposed increase in second class postal rates.

Dr. Weldon V. Barton, assistant national legislative director of the Farmers Union, said in testimony before the Commission that increasing second class postal rates would threaten the existence of small town newspapers. But in addition, he said, it would also "combine with other forces working to stagnate rural America."

Loss of weekly newspapers and other printed information sources that move through the mails "would serve to drag down and frustrate efforts to upgrade health, transportation, employment, education, and other activities essential for rural revitalization," Barton said.

Furthermore, he urged that rates on other classes of mail not be increased in order to absorb the deficit that will result from maintenance of current second class rates. "Instead," he said, "Farmers Union urges that --after the Postal Service makes every effort to secure financial savings by squeezing out operating inefficiencies -- the deficits be allowed to accumulate so as to encourage remedial amendment of the 1970 Postal Reorganization Act.

"Over the long run--as deficits accumulate -- Farmers Union recommends amendment of the 1970 Act to authorize continued subsidization out of general revenues of the federal government for essential mail and other information - communication services. We are convinced that efficient and inexpensive mail service to all areas of the nation is related to the public interest in a way that fully justifies the subsidization out of general tax revenue that is required to secure this objective."

Jay Naman, president of the Texas Farmers Union, said in Waco that the rural people of Texas have an important stake in maintaining a strong rural press. He said, "We see blocking this effort to increase second class postal rates as an essential aspect of our effort in behalf of rural development. There is a growing commitment of the nation that we must stop the senseless migration out of our small communities and rural areas, and into the nation's overcrowded and congested cities. The loss of smalltown newspapers would be only one more factor that would hinder efforts in this direction."

Sharp-Tracy-Frship

By Mrs. Leroy Guillote

Memorial services were held in the Friendship Methodist Church. Memorial services have been held in the little church since the year 1903, when the day was set aside to honor the many who made the community, and have passed away.

Rev. Doss, pastor of the church, greeted the many visitors and members of the church, and gave a short talk. Brother Hargrove of Rogers had charge of the music and also presented a solo. Mrs. Evie Shelton was the main speaker and stressed the point that we, as each an individual, are very important as a member of our community, our state and our country. Mr. Clifford Walker was master of ceremonies.

Mrs. Joe Issacs received recognition as being the oldest present and traveling the fartherest, from California. Some of the many present "coming back home" were Mr. C. M. Adams, assistant Dean of S.M.U., his mother, Mrs. Adams of Houston, Dr. Sidney Walker of Hempstead, Mrs. Booth McCarson of Boling, Mr. and Mrs. Curt Bean of Baytown, Mrs. Dick Pope and son of Alice, Mr. Hampton Bean and daughters, Sylvia and Monica of Pearland, Miss Ann Graham of Houston, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Campbell and sons of Navasota, Curtis Rhodes, Jr. of Temple and Mrs. Myrta Rhodes of Baytown.

Mrs. David Pope and children of Houston spent several days with the Bill Popes and Mrs. Mabel Charles.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Ellender, Linda and James drove from Oklahoma City Friday. Mr. Ellender has returned to Oklahoma City but his family remained for a two week's stay in their country home.

Miss Pam Morris of Houston is a guest of the Beard family.

The Sowder family enjoyed a weekend of swimming and fishing when they drove to Canyon Lake and met their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Reeves. Saturday evening they drove to San Antonio as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Reeves.

Mr. and Mrs. Val Nemec and Miss Agnes Rinn spent Sunday in Taylor with Mr. and Mrs. Willie Noack.

Jackie and Debbie Annis of Frisco are visiting their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Coffman. Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Coffman of Austin visited his folks Saturday night.

Stillhouse Hollow is really a beautiful lake, with swimming, boating and surf boards, and also a good place to get a good sunburn. Our family, Mrs. H. J. Ellender and children, Mr. and Mrs. Zane Bales and Bill of Temple and Mr. and Mrs. Mike Ocker of Garland spent Sunday enjoying the outing.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Lawrence came close to loosing their home, when they returned home, smelled smoke and found the closet with the hot water heater blazing. The gas heater had burned the floor completely out and had just started blazing on the walls.

4-H'ers in Milam County will convene for a full day of fun, games, entertainment and informative educational activities at the annual Summer Camp to be held July 1 in Cameron.

The summer camp is a yearly summer activity that lasts an entire day. It's purpose is for 4-H'ers from all over the county to get together and have fun and exchange ideas. All ages are invited and there are activities designed especially for younger and older members.

This year the camp will begin at 8 a.m. with registration and an opening ceremony and flag raising. After this the group will divide into a younger and older group. The younger 4-H'ers will begin work on arts and crafts projects that we hope will have some new ideas this year.

The older members will hold a panel discussion on "Problems of Teenagers in the Society of Today." Hopes are that some outside leaders can be brought in to help in this discussion. Some of the older members will help conduct the arts and craft projects.

That afternoon, the 4-H'ers will hold a talent show featuring whatever talent they have. A program will also be held later.

A volleyball tournament and cleanup will take place before the evening meal. That night Square Dancing will be held in the Methodist Fellowship Hall.

4-H COUNCIL MEETS

The Pledge and Prayer was led by Peter Riola. Connie Cone gave the minutes and roll call and Paula Fleming read the Treasurers report.

Club reports were given from John Caffey of the Thorndale Club, Peter Riola of St. Anthony, Paula Fleming of Countywide and Connie Cone of Minerva 4-H Club. The camp was planned and another meeting was set for June 24. The meeting was then adjourned.

RECORDBOOK WORKSHOP

Recordbook Workshops were held in Thorndale, Rockdale and Cameron this past week. 4-H'ers wishing to submit a recordbook for judging should get the necessary records from the office if you missed these meetings.

Recordbooks are due in the county office on July 7.

Small Farm Tour Set

A small farm tour will be held on Monday June 21 in the Gause Community beginning 9 a.m.

Demonstrations conducted with cooperators enrolled in the Intensified Farm Planning Program will be visited. These demonstrations will include corn weed control, Fertilizer tests, Grain Sorghum and Forage tests.

The tour will start at Coats' Grocery store in Gause at 9 a.m. and will terminate at noon. John Snell, associate county agent said refreshments will be served.

Iceland Is Pollution-Free

By Vergil Berger
Reuter Correspondent

REYKJAVIK, Iceland

Travelers who put freedom from pollution at the top of their vacation priorities should consider visiting Iceland.

This north Atlantic island almost exactly halfway between Moscow and New York has clean, pure air which puts its stark landscape into clear focus and in the bright light of a short summer, emphasizes the colors of the rocks and mosses.

Iceland's natural water supplies -- both hot and cold -- boast a purity which enhances anything from a swim or a bath to scotch and water.

Man-made pollution is not the only thing largely absent in Iceland. The country also has almost no trees, no dogs except on remote farms, no railroads, no snakes, few wild animals, little traffic and relatively few people.

Of its 200,000 inhabitants nearly half live in the capital city of Reykjavik.

But there is an abundance of volcanoes, glaciers, natural hot water geysers spouting high into the air, fish and birds. Iceland ranks as an ornithologists paradise.

Despite the country's name, coastal areas of Iceland have a fairly mild damp climate in summer because they are washed by warm ocean currents. But the largest glaciers in Europe cover wild and uninhabited volcanic mountain ranges in the interior.

The hot water from thermal springs which flow from the earth has been harnessed to provide central heating for all of Reykjavik. The water also keeps open -air swimming pools steaming even on the coldest days, and provides heat for greenhouses where bananas, flowers and warm climate fruits grow on the fringes of the Arctic.

The barren moon-like landscape -- Astronaut Neil Armstrong the first man to set foot on the moon, came here for acclimatization before his historic Apollo flight two years ago -- is criss-crossed with rivers and studded with lakes. Among the lava, rocks and jagged peaks are some spectacula waterfalls.

Small farms lie dotted in the green valleys toward the coast and fjords, but flying across the island on the cheap and frequent air services gives an overwhelming impression of emptiness and somewhat eerie beauty.

Some Icelandic volcanoes are still active, often showing ice and fire side by side.

Although Iceland was a history going back to the ninth century, when it was first settled by Scandinavians, there are few buildings more than 100 years old and most are much more modern.

But the pace of life is easy and there is no army and little crime -- the whole country has only 200 policemen. For most offenses there is a waiting list to enter the country's few prison cells, with convicted men carrying on with their work sometimes for two years or more before being called to serve their sentences.

Central Europe's Lake Geneva, sometimes called a "a wide spot in the Rhone River," is so huge that water entering the eastern end does not exit with the river at the western end until 11 years later, the National Geographic Society says.

Fryers Top Plentiful Foods List

Remember these food marketing tips as you plan your shopping list this week, suggests Gwendolyne Clyatt, Extension consumer marketing specialist.

Retail beef prices remain unchanged, but many markets are featuring various cuts of mature and baby beef at special prices. In general, look for best values on cuts from the chuck and rib, as well as specials on steaks, ground beef, franks and luncheon meats.

Best pork values include cooked hams, picnics, shoulder roasts and steaks and end cut loin roasts and pork chops.

Fryer chickens, in plentiful supply are the biggest bargain in some meat departments. Frozen turkeys are also available in some retail food stores at prices you can't afford to pass up.

Egg supplies are ample and prices are still low. Large size eggs are in greatest supply, with the Grade A large size offering the best combination of quality and economy for your egg money.

Fresh fruit and vegetable items in good supply at the most resonable prices include cantaloupe, bananas, lemons, oranges, avocados, strawberries, pineapples, honeydew melons, potatoes, corn, lettuce, squash, okra, cabbage, carrots, purple hull peas, yellow onions, radishes, green onions, beets and greens.

ENGAGED - Mr. and Mrs. Harold B. Darby of Cameron announce the engagement of their daughter Sharon Marie to Carroll Ray Richter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Richter of Cameron. The bride elect is a graduate of Yoe High School and Southwest Texas State University. Miss Darby will teach this fall at Rogers Elementary School in Rogers Texas. Mr. Richter is also a graduate of Yoe High School and Sam Houston State College. At present he is employed by Texas Nutrition and Service Company. The couple plan a November 21 wedding at Saint Monica's Catholic Church in Cameron.

Glass Adds Interest To Home

COLLEGE STATION

The 70's have brought about an explosion in home designing -- especially with glass, says Jan Slabaugh, Extension housing and home furnishings specialist.

Proof that a house can be open to beauty, the newest designs feature extensive applications of glass enhancing and extending the living areas to a walled-in or fenced-in patio.

One exciting innovation is the patio kitchen, a design in which the counters face outward and extend through the window wall, Mrs. Slabaugh reports.

Another idea is the garden bath, where bath and garden are separated only by a wall of glass. For this application, the specialist recommends safety glass.

An entrance door flanked with glass on both sides, called the open foyer, provides a natural transition from outdoors to indoors.

Or, consider the cathedral ceiling. Vaulted windows used in this design add horizontal spaciousness to a room, she explains.

To use more glass in home designing, many builders are enclosing the entire lot behind a perimeter wall. The wall provides privacy in a limited space, and permits extension of popular indoor - outdoor leisure living, Mrs. Slabaugh says.

TSCA OFFICER - Mrs. Glenna Martin of Cameron is the new historian for the Texas State Chiropractic Association Women's Auxiliary. The new officers were seated Friday, June 11 at a noon luncheon during the TSCA's 56th annual convention at Houston.

Tips For Perfect Chicken Barbecue

By Christine Laws Co. Home Demonstration Agent

Barbecued chicken is a favorite meal that is tasty, nutritious and inexpensive to prepare.

Broilers are the best chickens to barbecue because the young tender meat is easy to cook and eat. Use broilers that weigh two and a half to three and a half pounds. Split the birds in halves for cooking.

According to the new publications, "Chicken Barbecue," start with a clean grill and pit, basting brush and two kinds of prepared sauces -- one to use during cooking and the other for finishing. Use charcoal or any hardwood, wuch as oak, hickory, pecan or mesquite, for fuel, and start the fire with kerosene or charcoal lighter fluid. Do not use gasoline or cigarette lighter fluid as a starter.

When ready to barbecue, place the charcoal or wood in the pit on a nest of newspaper and saturate it with starting fuel. Allow about 30 minutes for charcoal or an hour for wood to burn down to a bed of white hot coals, placed about 12 to 14 inches below the grill. The secret of successful barbecuing is a solid bed of glowing coals and not leaping flames.

While waiting for the fire to burn down, prepare the basting sauce. Place 1 tablesppon salt, 1 teaspoon black pepper, 1 stick butter or oleo, 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce and a few drops of hot sauce into a 3-quart sauce pan.

Cook over a slow flame until the butter is melted, then add the juice of one lemon (vinegar may be substituted), fill the pan with water to a convenient level and heat. Do not boil. This sauce will preserve natural meat juiciness and add a basic subtle flavor. Tomato products or sugar should not be included in the basting sauce since such products scorch easily.

Once the coals are white hot, put the broiler halves, skin side up, on the pit. Turn the halves every 5 to 10 minutes, basting generously at each turning. Don't let the skin blister or it will burn black. If the fire becomes too hot, apply water using a hand sprayer or a pop bottle with a sprinkler head.

Apply the finishing sauce about 20 to 30 minutes before the meat is done. To prepare enough sauce for 10 broiler halves, combine 1 cup cooking oil, 1 cup vinegar, 1 cup catsup, one-fourth cup sugar and one-half cup water. Add salt, hot sauce and Worcestershire to taste. You may use one-half cup mustard instead of catsup. Use enough of the finishing sauce in basting to completely cover each broiler half twice.

To test for doneness, grasp the end of the drumstick bone and twist. If it is loose, the meat is done. Or, take the broiler half which looks the least done and, using a sharp knife, open the meat and tissue down to the joint where thigh and drumstick meet. If moisture in the joint runs clear, the meat is done.

Remove the birds from the grill as soon as they are done. If left on the grill for extended periods, they will dry out. A common styrofoam ice chest with a tight-fitting lid may be used for temporary storage, but be sure the box is clean. Line the chest with aluminum foil or paper towels to keep the broilers warm and wholesome for at least 2 hours.

This information is taken from a new publication MP-312 "Chicken Barbecue," are available from the Milam County Extension office in Cameron.

Barnes In Race For Governor

BEN BARNES

Lieutenant Governor Ben Barnes Monday announced that he will be a candidate for Governor of Texas in next year's elections.

Barnes announced his decision at a news conference at the State Capitol. The announcement ended speculation whether Barnes would seek the Governorship or run for the United States Senate.

Barnes, at 33, has more than ten years of experience in public office in Texas. He first won election to the Texas House from De Leon in 1960. He was elected Speaker of the House in January, 1965, and was re-elected to that post in 1967, thus becoming the youngest Speaker in Texas history to serve two consecutive terms.

In his first bid for statewide office, Barnes was elected Lieutenant Governor in November of 1968, and became the first candidate in the history of Texas to poll more than two million votes. He was re-elected to a second term in November of 1970.

Swim Lessons

The second session of swimming lessons gets underway this Monday at the City Pool. For more information call 697-9259.

ANT 'COWS'

Some ants are so fond of the "honeydew" food produced by aphids, the "cow" insects of the ant world, that they may carry the aphids to better feeding places and carral them inside the anthill in times of danger.

My "Pop"
. . . a grand guy in any language. A very special fellow at our house. Without him around night brings fright. But for him we couldn't eat as well, nor as much. He may be gruff at times; he may be firm when he disciplines. And we may answer "yessir" in agreement when he commands, but he is the very foundation of everything at our house.
It takes him to silence the doggie . . . to persuade Jr. . . . to laud sister's successes and to heap high praise on all the things mother does . . . that's "My Pop". They possess rare qualities, these fathers. A good one is a source of joy to every child.
Then on this Father's Day, let him have it right in the heart. Aim all the good things at him. Give him the treatment he so justly deserves and make him wish for another Father's Day very soon. Play with him but also pray with him.
Be a worshiper with him at your church this week.

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

Overactive Children

Young children who show an excess and kind of activity beyond the ordinary, normal range are known medically as hyperkinetic or hyperactive.

These overactive children constitute a small but significant portion of the usual preschool or kindergarden age groups. No one knows for sure how many children can truly be classed as hyperactive.

Estimates of prevalence of hyperactivity have been made, however, and range from three percent to fifteen percent of preschool children. Many authorities hold the opinion that the true figure would lie closer to three percent than fifteen percent.

If variations and degrees of hyperactivity could be effectively measured by a behavior assessment system, child care workers, physicians, and medical researchers would be able to do a better job of finding, studying, and treating these children.

Such information is now being developed through research; and scientists of the National Institute of Mental Health have recently identified six characteristics usually associated in a child to whom teachers apply the label, "Hyperactive."

These are called "frenetic" play (over-intense attention to one setting, then rapid movement to something else); play that forces caretakers to intervene; nomadic or roming play; spilling and throwing; inability to delay gratification; and emotional aggression.

The main thing, the researchers say, is that they have now reached a point at which they can begin to adequately measure and assess hyperactivtiy.

Their work is continuing, as is work supported by grants of the National Institute of Mental Health in other institutions, to find out more about overactivity in children and how to treat it.

This research is of especial importance because hyperactivity overshadows other clinical or health problems in preschool-age children in frequency. Adequate identification and treatment programs will not only be important in helping these children at this particular early stage in their lives, but also in the possible prevention of emotional disorders or difficulties that might come later on if they have no early help.

Marijuana Arrests Soaring In Japan

By Geoffrey Murray
Reuter Correspondent

TOKYO — Arrests for using marijuana soared in Japan last year and almost half of those picked up were foreigners, according to official government figures.

Despite this, the use of drugs is not a major problem in Japan, compared with the United States and other western countries.

Drugs used were predominately marijuana or LSD.

Hard drugs like heroin have been virtually eliminated as a Japanese habit, according to the official statistics.

In a paper on narcotics, the health and welfare ministry reported that 733 persons were arrested in 1970 for marijuana and hashish violations. This was an 80 per cent increase over the 413 violators of the previous year.

Almost half the arrests involved foreigners, including 291 Americans.

Since LSD was designated a narcotic in February last year, there have been 68 criminal cases involving its introduction to Japan or its use here.

Nearly all those arrested for LSD offenses were in their 20's and there were 12 teenagers, the ministry reported. The use of LSD is virtually limited to big cities like Tokyo and Osaka, as well as areas around U. S. military bases.

Police have blamed American servicemen anddeserters as well as foreign seamen for the introduction of many of the drugs.

In the past virtually all narcotics were smuggled into Japan from abroad. But the ministry reported a new tendency amongst pot users who have turned to wild hemp growing in northern Japan.

The use of drugs such as heroin and opium continued to decline sharply. In 1962 there were an estimated 50,000 heroin addicts in Japan. With drastic government counter-measures and the availability of softer, possibly less-injurious drugs, the number of reported addicts has dropped toward vanishing point
